YOU ARE CORDILY INVITED TO ATTEND THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION HONORING THE 1994 GRADUATES AT THE CONCLUSION OF THE CEREMONY.
TRADITIONAL ACADEMIC REGALIA

The wearing of academic dress at commencement dates from the early history of the oldest universities somewhere in the 12th or 13th century. Since educated people were almost always of the clergy, the black gown is somewhat of an adaptation of the cope, a mantle of silk or other cloth, worn by church dignitaries in processions and other special occasions. The long gown and cowl (similar to the academic hood of today) were worn by priests and monks for warmth in the cold, medieval buildings.

In the early centuries, a great diversity of color and style of cap, gown, and hood appeared in different universities of Europe. The European custom of wearing academic dress was later introduced at American colleges. Not until after 1895 was a uniform academic code of dress adopted by most colleges and universities in the United States. Today, the black robe, hood, and cap are worn at most institutions of higher learning.

The gown is cut differently for the associate's and bachelors, master's, and doctor's degrees. Usually the associate's and bachelor's robe has long, pointed sleeves; the master's has closed sleeves, square at the end with a slit at the elbow; the doctor's is faced with velvet and has round, open sleeves with three bars of velvet. The color of velvet represents the field of study.

The associate's hood is velvet and square-cornered, accentuated by a stripe of school colors. The doctor's hood has side panels and is slightly longer than the one worn for the master's degree. The color used in the velvet border indicates the degree. The velvet border is widest on the doctor's hood. The colors in the lining of the hood indicate the college or university which conferred the degree.

The Oxford cap, the so-called mortar board, is black and has a long tassel fastened to the middle of the top of the cap. The tassel is usually worn with pendant over the left front of the cap. The tassel on the cap of the doctor's regalia, except for professional degrees, is normally gold.

The associate degree candidates will wear the tassel on the right side of the cap during the Commencement ceremony. After the degrees have been conferred, all candidates are instructed to turn the tassels of their caps to the left side, showing they have graduated.
